

2nd European Chemistry Partnering

Networking and partnering event for the chemical industry: 23 February 2018

Concept and Conference Supporter

The chemical industry plays an important role in the continuing prosperity of Germany and Europe. Therefore, in order to promote innovation in this sector, it is essential that we improve networking among all stakeholders, not only from the chemical but also from user industries, technology suppliers and trendsetters from neighboring disciplines such as biotechnology or nanotechnology. That's why BCNP Consultants GmbH along with its Partners - and supported by Sponsors, are organizing this Conference in Frankfurt am Main.

Against a background of impulse lectures, panel talks, investor pitches, organized partnering discussions as well as exhibition stands, the organizers hope to stimulate discourse about the opportunities and challenges of the chemical industry, and to promote the emergence of innovation through the targeted networking of technology providers with users and investors. In order to attract international investors, start-ups and multipliers, the conference language will be English. The organizer's goal is to develop the conference into an annual European industry event.
